Headline:
Cloudy with outbreaks of rain.

Today:
A rather cloudy and cooler day than recent ones, with outbreaks of rain turning persistent in places. Rain perhaps heavy at times, with the greatest risk along the east Kent coast where the odd rumble of thunder is possible. Maximum temperature 20 deg C (68 deg F).

Tonight:
Rain and cloud gradually clearing east through the evening, with further heavy and thundery bursts possible. Most parts dry by dawn. Chance of mist or fog patches where skies clear. Minimum temperature 9 deg C (48 deg F).

Saturday:
Mist or fog patches soon lifting, with any rain also clearing east. A dry day follows, with sunny spells and variable cloud. The best of the sunshine in the west. Maximum temperature 24 deg C (75 deg F).

Outlook for Sunday to Tuesday:
Warm sunny spells and variable cloud expected through the period, although perhaps cloudier on Sunday. Many parts staying dry, but the risk of showers throughout. Rather chilly overnight periods.
